High School Teachers of Student Journalists

Give your students the opportunity to participate in a live, statewide press conference produced by Capital Region BOCES high school journalism students working at the Albany Times Union.

Tuesday, June 4, 2013

10:30-11:30 AM

BOCES Video Conference Sites throughout the State and by webcast at www.nysed.gov

Dr. John B. King, Jr.

Dr. John B. King, Jr., Commissioner of Education and President of the University of the State of New York, will engage with student reporters across the state via video conference. The Commissioner will speak for a few minutes and then answer questions from student reporters.

Suggested topics for discussion include college and career readiness, testing, career and technical education, the proposed research paper graduation requirement, teacher evaluations or any other issue that students want to know more about.

The expectation is that every enrolled participant would write or otherwise report on the content of the program to a larger local audience of students.

Students unable to attend the press conference at a BOCES video conference site may also watch the conference via live webcast at www.nysed.gov. Questions for Commissioner King can be submitted in advance via email at asknyedu@gmail.com by June 3. Additional questions will also be selected from a live Twitter feed during the event, and students who are unable to attend are invited to post their question on Twitter by tweeting to @AskNYedu.

Registration is required for students attending the press conference at a BOCES video conference site. Please complete the registration form posted at www.nysed.gov and email it to askthecommissioner@gmail.com by June 3.
