Please provide an overview of the student-level growth model or target setting model for SLOs for districts and BOCES, along with how student-level growth scores are aggregated to create teacher-level scores, and how those teacher-level scores are converted to New York State's 0-20 metric.

At the beginning of the year, teachers access historical data in order to differentiate targets (For example: previous year's assessment data, in-class formative and summative baseline assessments, attendance trends, considerations for ENL, SWD, economically disadvantaged, etc.). HEDI points are distributed based on students meeting the expected target as a percentage. Teachers with percentages from 90 – 100 are HE (18-20 points), 75 – 89 are E (15 – 17 points), 60 – 74 are D (13 – 14 points), and 0-59 are I (0 – 12 points) per the regulations.

New York State Next Generation Assessment Priorities
Please provide detail on how the proposed supplemental assessment I or assessment to be used with SLOs addresses each of the Next Generation Assessment Priorities below
Characteristics of Good ELA and Math Assessments (only applicable to ELA and math assessments):	Good ELA and Math assessments are directly tied to the NYS Common Core Standards. They mirror many of the exemplars found in the modules and lessons found on Engage NY.
Assessments Woven Tightly Into the Curriculum:	Assessments are woven into the curriculum by imbedding both formative and summative throughout the year or semester. Assessments can be very informal in nature such as using running records on observing student reading or through sprints and fluencies.
Performance Assessment:	Performance assessments are strongly encouraged in all areas where both the process and final product are valued equally. These assessments are extremely valuable in the performing arts, art, physical education, etc. Performance-based assessments utilize rubrics.
Efficient Time-Saving Assessments:	Assessments used throughout the year vary in length based on student need. Quality assessments are aligned to standards and demonstrate an appropriate level of rigor.
Technology:	Technology can be used depending upon the course outline and requirements
Degree to which the growth model must differentiate across New York State's four levels of teacher effectiveness (only applicable to supplemental assessments):
